THE THEATERS

"San Toy" is coming to the Robinson Grand Monday night, February 2, under the auspices of the Marcano Music Club. The Cadence orchestra will render the music. There will be special cars to Weston, Fairmont and Bridgeport after the performance.

Yen How, a mandarin of the first class, has as a daughter, San Toy, famed for her beauty and accomplishments. The emperor having heard of this, orders San Toy to be sent to Peking to be enrolled in the court body guard, a band of women. Yen How having other aspirations for his daughter determines to disguise San Toy as a boy and sends word to Peking he has a son not a daughter. Yen How departs on a political mission, and San Toy is entrusted to the care of Sir Bingo Preston, an English officer. His son, Bobby, teaching San Toy English, falls in love with her, proposed and is accepted. Fo Hop, a Chinese student, also in love with San Toy, and equally desirous of marrying her, is rewarded with a few unpleasant truths, and departs, vowing vengeance. Yen How returns to claim his daughter, and asks Mr. Preston to share the full moon feast, which the mandarins are preparing to celebrate.

Marie Dressler and her husband are said to own controlling interests in gold, copper and silver mines in Colorado.

It is asserted that "Stop Thief" which appears here soon, will start you giggling as soon as the curtain strongest and most unique in the history of England. The youngest son of the house of York, with two elder brothers preceding him as heirs to the throne, deformed by nature physically and morally, remorseless, cruel, indelible, respecting no law, human or divine, proceeds to his ambitious with remorseless energy disregarding the ties of blood, scoffing at religion, despising human affections and holding human life as nothing. Such, briefly, was the character of Richard III as portrayed by Mr. Ward. This attraction is said to be a far greater conception of a Shakespearean play than any heretofore shown in Clarksburg.

Patricia Collinge, who made a hit as Youth in "Everywoman," has deepened that impression in "The New Henrietta."

"Miss Christine Miller, the noted contralto, proved to be a singer of rare ability" said the Rochester, N. A. Union and Adviser in reporting a recital given by her in its city. "She gave a recital which was meritorious from all points of view, and the audience enthusiastically showed its appreciation and enjoyment by hearty applause. Not a small measure of success for this singer is due to her interesting personality. Pretty, graceful and charmingly groomed she was good to look upon. She possesses a smooth, flexible contralto of rich quality, and produces her tones with great ease and sureness. She is faithful to artistic principles and, to those who understand the vocal art, her work is highly appreciated. Added to this she has a fine authority of enunciation.

Frederick Ward's wonderful photographic masterpiece "Richard III," in five parts is being shown today at the Odeon theater. The character of Richard, Duke of Gloster, afterward King Richard III, is one of the

The great photoplay will start at 10:20 a. m. and continue until 11 p. m.

There is a touch of nature throughout the four acts of this beautiful play that is wonderfully realistic in every detail. It is a lesson, it is a sermon, it is a teaching. Every man, woman, girl and boy should see and hear it. It is not a religious sermon, but a strong feed natural vein of rich comedy runs throughout the play which never fails to please even the most fastidious.
